92 What Happened During Our Freshman Year? 93

We came into our freshman year after the 1992 Summer Olympics at Barcelona, where the US grabbed 108 gold medals. Carl Lewis won golds in the long jump and the 400-meter relay. Also in the summertime, Lollapalooza was in its second year with artists such as Red Hot Chili Peppers and Pearl Jam headlining. Hurricane Andrew hit Louisiana and Florida in August causing 51 deaths and $22 billion dollars in damages. In Washington, the Democrats seized the White House. After 12 years of Reagan-Bush Republicanism, Bill Clinton became our 42nd president with 42% of the popular vote. Ross Perot received 19%-the highest % popular vote ever to be received by an Independent candidate.

Across the world, Somalia and Bosnia posed the tricky question of intervention on the part of the US. Boutros-Boutros Ghali, former Egyptian deputy prime minister, became the Secretary for the United Nation.

Meanwhile in the entertainment industry, Audrey Hepburn died at the age of 63. Silence of the Lambs took Best Picture, Actress, Actor, and Director at the Academy Awards. Other outstanding films were Aladdin and Wayne's World. At the 35th Annual Grammy Awards, Eric Clapton swept 6 Grammys with his Unplugged Album and his single "Tears in Heaven." Red Hot Chili Peppers won Best Hard Rock Performance, and Nine-Inch Nails won Best Heavy Metal Performance. Also in music, even those who didn't like it will remember Billy Ray Cyrus's country single of "Achy, Breaky Heart".

The US Post Office issued its first Elvis

Presley stamp. Seattle grunge and "alternative" dressing came to Stoughton High. The Amy Fisher Story was a TV movie before anyone knew the outcome. Three days of rioting hit Los Angeles after the courts found three officers not guilty of wrongdoing in a videotaped crime of the beating of Rodney King. North Carolina beat out sixty three other teams for a first place win in the NCAA tournament. Larry Bird retired from the Boston Celtics after a 13 year career. The World Trade Center was bombed in the United States' first experience of terrorism at home. In Waco, Texas it was announced that David Koresh had died in the Branch Davidian Compound fire.—Sasha Abby Spontaneous alternative revolution. Lollapalooza II opened in Mountain View, California, and immediately laid to rest any fear the past couldn't be repeated. This year's version, was bigger and badder than its predecessor. (Right) Pearl Jam was one of the headliners.

(Top; Left-Right) Digging for gold in Barcelona, the United States strikes it rich. A hard day working at the Tokyo Stock Exchange. Mariah looking towards her millions of fans. (Middle; Left-Right) Smokey the Bear's worst nightmare, David Koresh. Boris Yeltsin trying to get his point across. (Bottom; Left-Right) Uh Beavis, what happened to my boat? It seems Hurricane Andrew parked the boat. Genie says "You ain't never had a friend like me!" Bill Clinton! Smile and show those pearly whites!

93 What Happened During Our 94 Sophomore Year

Ah . . . the world of ninety-three to ninety-four; earthquakes, terrorist attacks, suicides and national crises continued to fester in the mass of land and water called Planet Earth. This year in review epitomized the strength of the community, and successfully captured the peril - and the promise - of the individual:

Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman, the Egyptian terrorist linked to dozens of terrorist bombs around the country, was the accused leader of a group of terrorists that exploded a bomb in the World Trade Center in New York City. More than 1,000 were injured and six died.

Yasser Arafat made history in September when he signed a peace treaty with Israel. Under PLO agreements, limited Palestinian self-governing commenced in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank. Shortly after, Israel and Jordan ended the state of war between them—one that had lasted 46 years. Arafat, the 64 year-old leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization once told a reporter, "I am a freedom fighter. I am sure this is the way that history will remember me."

The people of Haiti anxiously awaited the return of their elected president, the Rev. Jean-Bertrand Aristide. After two years of exile that followed an army coup that overthrew him, President Aristide was set to return home. Aristide, a Roman Catholic priest, was elected in a landslide in the country's first democratic vote. His return followed two years of negotiating a settlement of Haiti's political crisis.

Twenty-two million eligible voters lined up over a four-day period to cast their ballots in the first open election open to all races, and Nelson Mandela — the black South African nationalist leader who had been imprisoned for 27 years under apartheid, was inaugurated as president.

On election day in 1994, the Republicans won a resounding victory as they took control of both houses of Congress for the first time in 40 years. President Clinton's innocuous health care reform system stalled and died in congress.

Floods hit the Midwest in the late spring and early summer. Thousands of farms and homes were lost, fields were swamped, and towns were submerged. The states that were hit the hardest were Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, causing billions of dollars worth of damage. As the waters began to recede, barges began moving along the Mississippi River and people began digging out their mud-filled homes. President Clinton signed a 5.7 million aid package to help the victims.

David Letterman, the darling of the late night television audience, left his niche at NBC and moved over to Broadway and 53rd St. to the newly refurbished Ed Sullivan Theater that CBS renovated for him. He changed networks for a reported 1.5 million dollar contract, and his new show swept the ratings with rave reviews.

Kurt Cobain, the lead singer of the influential rock group Nirvana, committed suicide. Said to have been one of the greatest lyricists of all time, Kurt was touted as a spokesperson for his generation—a role that he completely rejected. Kurt mastered expression with his pained, introspective music and helped boost other "alternative" bands.

The world of entertainment was witness to the revival of a famed singer as Barbara Streisand returned to the concert circuit after a twenty-year absence.

Also in the wide world of music, Woodstock '94, a mud slicked gala of music and dance, rocked Saugerties, New York.

The death of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, one of the most elegant and admired first ladies, shocked the nation, as did the death of ex-president Richard Nixon.

Steven Spielberg won best director and best picture for Schindler's List, a riveting motion picture about the Holocaust, starring Liam Neeson and Ben Kingsley.

Football legend Orenthal James "O.J." Simpson was arrested and put on trial for allegedly murdering his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

Millions of sports fanatics were sorely disappointed when a Major League Players' Strike led to the cancellation of the World Series. Soon after, the National Hockey League locked out the players in the 1994-95 season.

An earthquake that ranked 6.8 on the Richter scale rocked the Los Angeles area, causing destruction of housing complexes, creating damage over $4 million, and 61 deaths in all of forty seconds. Also in California, fires caused great damage to residential property. Driven by the hot Santa Ana winds, the fires wreaked havoc over 6 counties in Southern California.

The AIDS Virus continues to spread . . . The Center for Disease Control and Prevention estimated that there would be 40,000 to 80,000 new HIV infections in the United States this year. President Clinton appointed Kristine Gebbie as his AIDS policy coordinator to oversee government AIDS programs. —Danielle Power

94 What Happened During Our Junior Year? 95

As we progressed through our Junior Year, many events captured the world and national attention. On a world scale, the fighting in Bosnia-Herzegovina continued, where progress in negotiations had been slow. Cuban refugees left the dictatorial area ruled by Fidel Castro, and were denied entry into the United States. Former President Jimmy Carter lead a negotiation team to create a deal with General Raoul Cedras to restore former Haitian President Jean-Bertrand Aristide to power. Nelson Mandela won the country's first all-race election that ended a white minority rule and made Mandela the first black South African leader. The signing of the "Washington Declaration" marked the peace accord made between Israel and Jordan. The landmark hand-shaking between Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and King Hussein of Jordan occurred with President Clinton presiding over the ceremony. More than a million Rwandan refugees were forced to flee Zaire and neighboring countries due to political commanding parties. Disease killed thousands and more than 500,000 deaths resulted from massacres. In the fall of 1994, Russian President Boris Yeltsin visited Washington, D.C. to meet with President Clinton.

Events taking place in the country include Supreme Court Justice Stephen G. Breyer became President Clinton's second high-court appointee. In other Clinton news, he won his political battle with the crime bill, yet lost the most important fight of the health care proposal, that First Lady Hillary Clinton was in full support of. Senate minority leader Bob Dole maintained that there was no health care crisis, and pushed for welfare reform. The Republican Party, for the first time in forty years, had control of Congress, under the leadership of Newt Gingrich. In April, the country came to a halt as a federal building in Oklahoma City was bombed and there were over 100 fatalities. The "Trial of the Century" continued with O.J. Simpson and his Dream Team battling it out with Marcia Clark, with what seemed to be an unending bout. The trial, right down to the preliminary hearing was nationally televised for millions of viewers to tune into everyday. A landmark event for the hearing disabled, Heather Whitestone fulfilled her dream of becoming Miss America.

In sports events, baseball just didn't happen. Players went on strike in August and then owners went on to vote to cancel the regular season. For the first time since 1904, the World Series was not played. Jerry Rice, making sports history at age 31, playing for the San Francisco 49ers, became the National Football League's all time touchdown scoring leader. Michael Jordan, after realizing that baseball just wasn't for him, came out of retirement to play once again for the Chicago Bulls.

During the summer preceding our Junior Year, the United States hosted the World Cup Soccer games across the country. Games were played practically in our backyards, as Massachusetts residents could get a taste of what soccer was really about. In sports tournaments played throughout the year, the champion for the National Football League was the 49ers, after defeating the Chargers. Houston was the winner for the National basketball League, and the New Jersey Devils were crowned the National Hockey League's best. In NCAA action, UCLA became champions after surviving a field of sixty-three other fine teams.

In entertainment news, the blockbuster hit "The Lion King" made history as one of the top grossing movies ever. We can never forget Elton John's hit from the movie, "Can You Feel the Love Tonight". The just as popular "Forrest Gump" captivated audiences and put a comical touch on simple values and good intentions. "My So Called Life", the critically acclaimed ABC series didn't find the support it needed when ABC voted it out of its programming. The talented young star Claire Danes made her mark in entertainment and would go on to film movies such as "Little Women." Robert Plant and Jimmy Page had one final reunion, recording "Unledded" as an MVT special. R.E.M. made it big with their hit "What's the Frequency, Kenneth", owing the success of this song to Dan Rather. In not-so-pleasant entertainment news, Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie Presley married, and Snoop Doggy Dog was put on trial for murder.-Lynn Kimball

Gooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooo!
(Left -Right) Israel's Prime Minister Yitszak Rabin, on a mission for peace in the Middle East. The only question O.J. Simpson has is "Could we please get this over with?" Bosnia-Herzegovina's president Alija Izetbegovic continued to face the everyday war and desperation in his country, hoping to develop a peace plan.

95 What Happened During Our 96 Senior Year?

It was nearly three decades ago, after a series of race riots in Los Angeles, Newark and Detroit, that a commitment began to use race-based programs to improve the lives of blacks. It was called affirmative action but in 1995-1996 plans began to get weaker.

After months of arduous negotiations and a tense last-minute flurry of crisis and walkouts, Israel and the Palestinians concluded a major agreement. It transferred control of the occupied West Bank to its Arab residents. In a 400 page document a step by step and town by town withdrawal of Israeli forces from much of the territory that Israel has occupied since the 1967 war.

The Cranberries are threatening U2's reign as America's favorite Irish band. Their last two albums sold more than six million copies. Triple Grammy winner Sheryl Crow and her band have toured without a break since her debut in 1993. Every time they schedule a break, the album zooms up the charts.

Bill Gates made computer headlines when he introduced Windows 95, the long-awaited upgrade to the Windows computer software program. It was billed as revolutionary and innovative, and the musical group, The Rolling Stones were turned into software pitchmen. Gates, the 39 year old chairman of Microsoft Corp., was also crowned the richest man in the United States, with a net worth of about $14.8 billion.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich, a Republican congressman from Georgia, rose to the heights of Speaker of the House Representatives. Gingrich was always considered a 1996 presidential candidate though later stated he was not interested at this time. He promised to overhaul more than a generation of social programs that began in the eras of the New Deal and the Great Society.

The Atlantic region's hurricane season this year was so active that it has produced the most named storms since the National Hurricane Center started assigning names in 1953. Storms are named in alphabetical order, but names beginning with Q, U, X, Y and Z are excluded because of their scarcity. This year, officials were preparing to reach the end of the list and begin naming storms after the Greek alphabet, starting with Alpha.

Timothy McVeigh is a well-guarded prisoner. He and one other man, Terry Nichols, are charged with eleven counts in the bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City. The explosion on April 19 killed one hundred sixty-nine people and injured more than five hundred.

Mickey Mantle was one of the greatest baseball players who ever lived. Mantle inspired generations of fans with his power and ability. He died of a fast-spreading liver cancer at the age of 63, two months after a liver transplant.

Baltimore Orioles shortstop Cal Ripken marched into the record books when he broke Lou Gehrig's record of 1939. Ripken broke the record on September 6th and went on to finish the season having played in 2,153 consecutive games—the last 70 of them without an error.

The murder trial of O.J. Simpson ended. Not Guilty. It took the jury less than four hours to reach the verdict in the sensational trial that lasted eight months.

Females: (5) ugly clothes, (7) nothing, (4) socks, a leaf press, a mug, a book, a puzzle, a calendar, a used teddy bear, four and a half dead carnations, a set of gloves and a matching hat, a trash can, a box of chocolates when on a diet.

Males: a radiator (2) socks, (7) nothing, a sweater, a flower, a five dollar bill with no card.

If you could use one word to describe yourself what would it be?

Females: anti-Stoughton, Uh oh . . . , sensitive, caring, hyper, pretty, (3) out going, temperamental, reliable, (2) nice, (4) friendly, chiller, perky, unique, quiet, generous, funky, (4) no word

Males: (2) nice, musical, different, abnormal, out-there, kind, phat, strong, magnetic, perfect, no word.

Studying at the last minute? What? Sharron Barnett and Dan McLaughlin.

Revolutionary fashion: Louis Lozano, Nancy Pereira, Keren Leviel, Lindsay Rosenfield and looking on Angela Polillio.

Can you believe we're juniors, upperclassmen? It almost seems like yesterday that we as a class entered the long hallways of S.H.S as timid freshmen into a new world. A world soon to be filled with new and old friends, essays, mid years and finals, spirit halls and pep rallies. Back then things were so much simpler then we realized. PSAT and SAT were simply letters in the alphabet and getting a job was taking out the trash. The boys and girls that use to play HEMAN and SHE-RA and chased each other on the playground are now driving Nissans and Hondas and going to the prom. Think about how much has changed in our lifetime. We've gone up in size from Osh Gosh B'Gosh to Gap and Calvins. From the fashion statements of mall bangs and spiked hair we've evolved into Kurt Cobain cranberry red locks and guys with pony tails. When we were young we listened to "The New Kids on the Block" and "Vanilla Ice", now it's "Alanis Morisset", "Dave Matthews Band" and "Pearl Jam". Our older siblings when they were our age used to drive our parents nuts by listening to KISS 108 FM, we now have the same privilege by listening to something even louder, WAAF 107.3 FM. Soon we'll be going off to dance clubs, and disco's just as those that came before us.

Finally reality is setting in and we can look back on our past and laugh about how everyone said the junior high had a pool. Now we're the upperclassmen that get to tell the newcomers that the high school has a B fourth and the elevator's for everyone. PSAT and SAT are no longer parts of the alphabet, we know what they stand for and know enough to sweat over them. Every year at spirit halls our class seems to get louder and louder drowning out the classes beneath us. Morning announcements seem to carry more of our names than last year, and when we go out shopping instead of hanging out with our friends we tend more to visit them at work. One thing we can't forget though through all this growing up is that these are the best times of our lives and we shouldn't waste them. Life's to short and we'll have plenty of time to grow up and become responsible adults living in the real world. So for now we enjoy our lengthy summer vacations, get tans, listen to loud music, and sleep in on Saturdays, because we're the youth of America, the future leaders of our country and finally . . . the Upperclassmen!

1996 Stoughton High Talent Show Rockin' The Night Away

On March 1, 1996, all of Stoughton High School watched as their fellow classmates displayed their wealth of talents in the 1996 Talent Show. This spectacular show, produced and directed by Mrs. Dolan of the drama department, was sponsored by the Student Council. Hosted by Jeff Leer, Kelly Mason,

Nicole Beliveau, and Kiah Jones, this year's talent show had an amazing variety of acts ranging from the rocking sounds of Peppertree, to the upbeat dance steps of Unique. The crowd was particularly moved by the surprise performance of Brenda Pinto, who awesomely portrayed her version of Aretha Franklin's song "Respect". This night turned out to be very successful for Student Council as well as for all the performers and crew members. We hope that the Talent Show will continue to be an annual event here at Stoughton High School.

The Sophomore Experience

Another year has past in this wonderful building we call . . . school, and we the class of 1998 are SOPHOMORES. (dun-dun-du!!) What this means is not only do we have two more years in the cheery place (which means we still have 1980 hours of school left if any ones counting), but we also don't have the excuse of being "the freshmen".

As we walk down the halls and snicker at perplexed freshman staring aimlessly down the hall trying excruciatingly hard to figure out on what floor, in what building they are; you must give them a smidgen of sympathy. For a year ago you were doing the same thing.

We've done it all, Spirit Halls, class rings, fund raising, the whole experience. So let us give you a quick rap up of the year:

We placed third in the recycled can drive, food drive, and on sweatshirt day. We got an amazing second in spirit hall with a theme of "Stoughton: Through the Years." We entertained Stoughton's young children at the annual Halloween Party. We chose Balfour for our class ring company (hope you all enjoy your rings). The two class fund raisers were cut down to one because of lack of help, but the one we had made us a good amount of money.

With junior year rapidly approaching, we look back at our antics, achievements, and stupid mistakes of the previous years (and since we can not change the past) move forward proudly knowing that our adventures will make us far wiser people. -Kendall DeBassio & Yolanda America

A FRESHMAN

To The Class of 1996

The freshman class of 1996 would like to congratulate all of the graduating seniors as well as wish them luck in the future. This year, being our first year in high school, was a bit difficult, but a great learning experience. The first freshman activity was a fundraiser that unfortunately did not go as well as planned. I do not consider this a loss though, for we learned important lessons that will benefit us in the future. Our next major event was spirit halls, a feat which we attacked blindly since it was our first year. I was extremely grateful for the large amount of students that helped out and all of the participating freshman should be proud of the great amount of time and devotion that was put forth.

Luckily, when we return next fall, we will no longer be freshman, but sophomores with a renewed enthusiasm and heightened expectations of our years to come. As we look ahead, it is our goal to be successful in our high school career as the graduating class of 1996 has been. - Jenna Obelsky

CHAMPS!!!

The 1995-96 boys varsity soccer team had an outstanding season this year. Under the leadership of coach Michael Stuber the team managed to become number one in the Hockomock League and ranked fifth in eastern Mass. The team's leading scorer was Sadique Hassan who had a season total of 14 goals and 11 assists. Playing net was Mark Pongonis with Jorge Alves playing the major role as back up. The team's final record was 11-1-4.

Sadique Hassan jumps over the opponent to charge for the ball.

Dave Leal runs to attempt to gain control of the loose ball.

Chris Loayza fights for control of the ball as teammates Geoffrey Dancey and Sadique Hassan look on hopefully.

GOAL!!!

This year the girls soccer team managed to pull off a few victories led by co-captains Kerry McElaney and Diana Andrade. Seniors Denise Brown and Traci Feibel displayed excellent effort and tremendous spirit.

The season got off to a slow start due to the illness of coach Sylvia Slater. Junior varsity coach Edward Freitas took over for the remainder of the season, sparking enthusiasm and work ethic.

The backbone of the team was the strong defensive line. These girls along with outstanding performances by goalie Mikaela Fahey kept Stoughton in the game.

This year was a building year for the team. Only four members are leaving the team this year with three fourths of the starters remaining. These experienced players along with the addition of talented freshmen are showing the signs of a promising season next year.

The team would like to acknowledge and thank Donna Fahey for all of her support and help throughout the years.

Erin Fahey sets up a corner kick before slamming the ball.

Diana Andrade boots the ball towards the opponent's end of the field as goalie Mikaela Fahey looks on.

Field Hockey: A Real Drive!

The Stoughton High School Field Hockey team struggled in 1995. They started off with an impressive 6-0 win over Franklin, but fell short in too many games. The 2-7-9 record did not reflect the team's talent. Coach Mark was impressed with the depth of the bench and the good shape all the participants were in. The varsity team worked well together on and off the field and constantly put in their all. The best games were played at Franklin, under the lights and at home against Canton, when the team pulled off 0-0 ties versus the two top teams. Leading scorers during the '95 season were Michelle Fisher and Kristen Lucas. Returning varsity players were Merry Barry and Renee Rose. Special highlights and memories the team will not forget were: Toilet papering Coach Mark's house, pasta parties, saran wrap, six on six, playing under the lights, singing, and making it through doubles sessions!

Sara McKay is hoping that shutting her eyes while stopping the ball will pay off!

Janine Barry, #9, is asking God for a goal after receiving a corner.

Courtney Leavitt is rushing towards the ball, as the bench screams, "Stick down!"

Michelle Fisher thinks, "I wonder if Coach Mark will be upset with my reverse stick moves, but it's better than a huge wind up!"

Michelle Bernstein is determined not to let the ball pass her by this time as she stands there doing exactly what she was taught to do.

Before the game begins, the entire team puts their sticks together and chants, "P-P-S-P-S-Y-C-Y-C-Y-C-Y-C-H-E, we're psyched, we're psyched, we're psyched!"

Ready to Rumble

The Stoughton Black Knights football team had an impressive display in their 1995 season with superb senior talent and remarkable junior varsity assistance. Head Coach, Greg Burke and co-captains, Jon Scibeck, Jon Pires, David Nevil, and Mark Scotch, lead the Black Knights to an excellent record of five wins and two losses at the seven game mark.

The offense, lead by quarterback Alex Tarpey, and defense had many strong players such as Pires, Scibeck, McNamara, Nevil, Steele, Scotch, and Velho. Stoughton's line was held strong by Mark Scotch, Jim DeLorey, Joe Luppino, Keith Burke, Art Barnes and David Nevil. The defense's main players Nevil, who leads the team in sacks, and Barnes, linebackers Pires and Steele, and secondary man McNamara.

Stoughton also has an outstanding kicker in Manny Velho who has converted 34 of 37 point after attempts and has hit two field goals of 34 and 37 yards.

With three straight wins the Knights are rapidly moving up to one of the top teams in the Hockomock league. -Jon MacKerron

Running Insane Distances for Fun

The '95-'96 Cross Country boy's season had many obstacles, not the least of which was immobile buses. We did considerably well for a team of our size, which consisted of only 11 people. Kyle Fredericks gave an outstanding performance earning a well deserved MVP award. Freshman Jared Savas and newcomer Josh Schultz were valuable new additions to the team, and captains Mike Flynn and Steve Cohn were exemplary role-models. Senior, David Guglia gave a good deal of support to other teammates, while Ryan Wilensky amazed us. Junior, Steve Cofran ran some excellent races. Freshman Paul America's nickname- "Peter Pan", says enough about his character, while John McInerney proudly stumbled to the finish of each of his races. The team showed a great deal of spirit and sportsmanship, and owes its success to coach Joe Lemar.

The girl's team, led by coach Tosca, fared amazingly well for a team of but four people. Rachel Selby won an award for the freshmen race at one meet, while Alyssa Dancy and Danielle Olen finished close behind. Leah Gambrazio improved consistently from race to race, and as a whole, the team strutted its stuff remarkably.

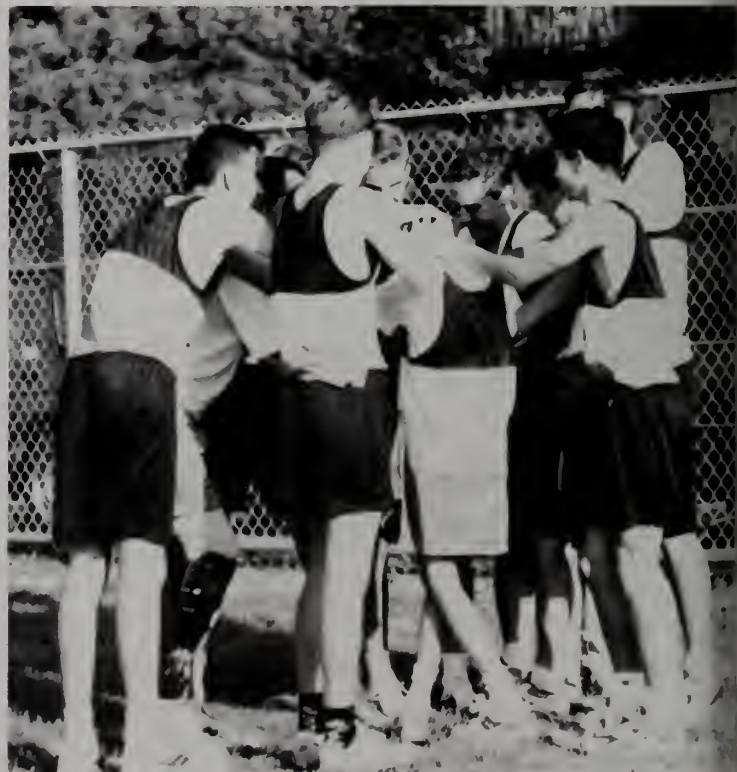

"I don't know about you, coach, but this is what I'm thinking: meow meow meow meow meow meow meow meow meow."

Kyle: "Hey, Dave, c'mon, wait up!"

Teammates rub Paul "Peter Pan's" head for good luck.

Steve: "Hey-John, watch out! I think that's a bus up ahead!"

"We're bad. We know it. We're bad. We show it."

So We Splash

The girls swim team, coached by Chris Brady and Mary Ann Caldwell, was led by captains Becky Johnston, Jenn Levine, and Andrea Zechello. All of the seniors, captains as well as Bethany Geiger, Sue Gill, and Marcia Rosenstein, had incredible seasons. Becky, Jenn, and Bethany competed in sectionals; Becky for diving and the others in relays. Sue and Marcia had many personal bests in their events the 100 fly and the relays. Andrea also had many personal bests in the 500 (the 20-lapper). This year had many memories: the first year that Stoughton has ever tied a meet, an improving record of 2-11-1.

The seniors show off what they've learned in four years — that their legs can look big underwater.

Another Dunk

At the beginning of this season the Stoughton Boys Basketball team had great promise. After making it to the tournament last year, they had the returning talent that would allow them to make it again this year. People were expecting great things from the boys' team this year but unfortunately they could not deliver. The team started out strong with an overtime victory against Franklin, but they couldn't keep the momentum going. Behind the strong play of Marvin Pardo, Mark Pongonis, Darryl Veale, and Adam Mitchell, the team finished with an overall record of 6-14. -Cathy Mahoney

The Girls Varsity Basketball Team started the season on a good note with two convincing victories against Franklin and Mansfield. Unfortunately it did not continue that way once the team faced stronger and more talented opponents. Led by co-captains Kerry McElaney and Nili Schnairsohn the Lady Knights fought through a demanding season, while facing some of the best teams in Eastern Massachusetts. In what was a rebuilding year the team played with great pride and determination no matter who the opponent or what the scoreboard read. # Grapplers

This year's Wrestling Knights had a successful season. The majority of any losses the Knights suffered can be attributed to the forfeitures in the 171+ lb. weight classes. This was the cause of defeat to Dedham and Silver Lake during a quad meet, but despite the hardship we beat Middleboro 51-30 and tied arch rivals Canton 42-42. Dan Pope, Dominic Rebelo, Ben Groupin, Jay Gawrys, Brian Cheverie, Dan Staples, Shahid Malik and Tim Carroll have all excelled in nearly every meet they have competed in. Head Coach Mike Carroll stated that he was pleased with the team's performance and was especially impressed with the participation in the Division II Championships.

Despite consistent and a "never say die" attitude, the varsity hockey team suffered a somewhat disappointing season. Posting a record of 7-11-2, they really pushed themselves to the limits. Coach Dan Mark's Knights had a difficult time against some of the toughest teams this year. The underclassmen are going to have a great time in the years ahead dealing with the opposing teams.

So the team will have to say "Goodbye" to their three outstanding seniors, Pat O'Neill, Peter McDonagh, and Sadique Hassan. So a mighty farewell to the guys and good luck next year! -Brenda Pinto.

The Spirit of Stoughton

The 1995-1996 Cheerleading season turned out to be a successful and very memorable season. The cheerleaders improved their squad and spread school spirit throughout S.H.S. A new coach, Lauren Rodriques, was a wonderful inspiration to the girls, since she had been a cheerleader herself. During the fall season the team consisted of Co-Captains Jovanna Baptista, Nicole Werra, and Kellie Kelleher, Kerri Camara, Becky Souza, Stacey Patterson, Nancy Pereira, Kelly Lehane, Kristin Mahoney, and Coach Lauren Rodriques.

These girls held fund raisers during the summer break. They organized two car washes to raise money for the coming season. The squad also participated in cheering clinics held in S.H.S. Gymnasium. The clinics were designed to teach younger kids the basics of cheerleading. A number of these younger girls were selected to cheer at the 1995 Homecoming Game.

Proceeds from the clinics went to cover the expenses of a summer cheering camp. The camp, organized by the UCA, consisted of four days of intense dances, cheers, stunts, and team spirit. Cheerleaders found the camp helpful in preparing for the upcoming season. During the fall the cheerleaders found themselves very busy juggling practice schedules, cheering at soccer and football games, and planning for the Pep Rally. In addition, the SHS Varsity Cheerleaders lent their support to the Powder Puff Cheerleaders, preparing the inexperienced young men for their debut Power Puff game. We would like to congratulate the MVP winner Kristin Mahoney and the winner of the Sportsmanship award Jovana Baptista.

The winter season brought about some change to the Varsity team. The team now consisted of Coach Lauren Rodriques, Tri-Captains Kelly Lehane, Kristie Lehane, Nicole Werra, and Jill Kuhn, Heather Hewins, Siarena Parker, Jill Mallen, Amanda Gentile, Holly Hewins, and Heather Feeney, Kellie Kelleher, Stacey Patterson, and Blythe Leonard.

The girls found themselves cheering at both basketball and ice hockey games, in addition to regular practices. They also competed at cheering competitions in Milford, in which they took home a third place win, and in North Attleboro in which they improved by five points. Their efforts and spirits were greatly appreciated at S.H.S. Congratulations to the Winter MVP Nicole Werra and to the Sportsmanship award winner Amanda Gentile. -Sasha Abby and Kerri Camara

Burger King Fuels Track

This year the Stoughton Track Team, under the direction of coach Mason had a record of 4-3-1. Kyle Fredericks and Steve Dancey were undefeated in their events, as was newcomer Jay McNamara. Kyle and Steve did exceedingly well at Hocks, Kyle grabbing first and Steve second.

Eddie Kim and Jarrod Savas both ran the 600m impressively. Geoff Dancey proved a constant benefit to the team in the two mile.

Hurdlers Bart Heberling, Mike Child, and Adam Iacobucci perfected the art of ordering McDonald's. David Guglia taught newcomers the benefits of so-called knee injuries while running. What else can be said about a sport that, after every competition, parks itself at a Burger King for 2 hours?

Don't worry Rich, the panther is NOT real.

Coach Richardson is pleased with the team's astounding success

If I Had Five Cents For Every Mile . . .

This year, the Lady Knights worked through many challenges. Faced with teams with many times their own numbers, they, through hard work, managed to pull ahead. At the beginning of the season, coach Richardson could be heard as saying "Anything in the double digits, we can consider a win" due to their horribly understaffed team. To even their own surprise, they managed to pull off two wins, and in a climactic end of the season match with Canton, lost by a single point. The girls scored often in the 30's and 40's—much higher than anyone had anticipated. In addition, they scored fourth overall in the Hockomock League.

Team captains Regina Pierre, Liz Bascon, and Sara McKay led the team on to their astounding success. Among the difficulties faced was that the majority of the team was made up of new players, underclassmen who still strove to come out ahead. Among personal accomplishments is Rachel Millen, who broke her own record in her already impressive shot put distance. Outstanding performances in the 600m and shot put were put forth by sophomore Liz Young, whose presence guarantees a bright future for the Lady Knights. Coach Richardson led the team well, and is responsible for their outstanding sportsmanship and success. - John McInerney

Head Over Heels!

The 1996 Gymnastics Team, with Coach Lisa Walsh and rookie Assistant Coach Lisa Wainwright, completed a hectic and successful season. Major injuries escaped the gymnasts this year (whew!), but snow cancellations were burdensome to all. Throughout the season, the team managed to improve its skills from the previous year, as senior Becky Johnston consistently improved her floor routine and junior Elana Swardlick performed well on floor and beam. Junior all-arounds Lisa Collins and Jenn Loayza produced strong scores during the season and at the Hockomock League Championships.

Great efforts this season were shown by sophomore Sherrie Nankin on bars and floor, and senior tri-captain Kristen Lucas on beam, bars and vault. Highlights of the season: Sherrie "Dude" Nankin's antics, the gigantic Lucas tape-ball, the unwavering power of "The Steel", and sleep over pranksters. -Danielle Power

Fore!!!

The Stoughton Golf team had a successful season this year under the leadership of coach Paul Jacobs. Starters Samir Ragab, Kevin Smith, Keith Barrette, Brian Feely, Lee Schneider, and Rob Yeomans led the way this season. After losing three seniors the golf team lived up to the strong golf tradition at Stoughton High School. Special thanks to Greg Hansen for the moral support he gave to the team.

It's a Whole New Year

The baseball team, recovering from a bad season last year, showed a lot of talent this year and began with a good start. Coach Asheley in his second year coaching the Varsity team, hoped to bring them to the State Tournament, but the team fell short with a record of 8 and 12. However, led by seniors, Todd Korchin, Mike Hahn, Adam Mitchell, Chris Baldner, and Ben Reis, the team made the season a successful one with spirit, a lot of new talent especially on the offensive side, and sportsmanship. Hockomock League All-stars were Todd Korchin and Jarrod Rotondo, who also was voted Team MVP. Chris Baldner was awarded a Stoughton High School sportsmanship award.

Rookies of The Year

Seniors, Michelle Fisher, Kerry McElaney, Courtney Leavitt, Kelly Hardiman, and Nili Schnairsohn, led this year's team to a Hockomock League title. Also, the team finished thier (supposedly) rebuilding season as South Sectional Champs. With only two returning starters, the team shocked everyone's expectations; even their own. Although this young team's accomplishments were due to their strong togetherness, three players were recognized as League all-stars: Shortstop, Kerry McElaney, who was also named Team MVP, Freshman Pitcher, Andrea Cabit, and Center Fielder, Nili Schnairsohn, who was also named League MVP and All-State. Michelle Fisher, who hit the grand slam to get the team a definite league title, received a Stoughton High School sportsmanship award.

Tennis Anyone?

The season started during April vacation but the team was missing some key players. Unfortunately, we lost our first match against Foxboro. Myself co-captain, won a tough three set match, while senior, Samir Ragab cruised to victory in straight sets. Our triumphant day came in Foxboro, the match, kicked off by a straight set victory for myself ended by a three set victory by co-captain Eric Books. Winning their first doubles match was junior, Jason Gorin and sophomore, Mike Obelsky. Our underclassmen were the most dedicated. Our seniors Bart Heberling, Clive Hon, and Samir Ragab were there all season, giving us great tennis. Our coach was the most committed we have had in years, keeping our goals in sight. - Chris Santos

Improved Skills!

The girls tennis team began the year with a unexpected announcement that a "Wisconsin tennis pro" would soon be replacing the veteran coach. Although the team was apprehensive during the week of try-outs, the unfamiliarity subsided as Lise Abrams introduced herself. Highlights of the season included the marshmallow captain's practice before the "tornado", Lise's pep talks, and intriguing discussions in the back of the bus. Great efforts and the winning spirit were shown by senior co-captain Christie McDonald in singles, senior Kiah Jones in doubles, and juniors Lisa Collins and Nicole Beliveau in their respective games. Also, sophomores So Yun Kwan and Melissa Nankin improved their skills dramatically over the season. -Danielle Power

"If Only Every Meet..."

The Spring Track season was an experience into greatness. Our record is 2-7, this was not indicative of our performance as a whole. The record also does not take into account the great individual performances by the team. Among these is Captain Kyle Fredericks' undefeated mile performance against other teams. Captain and M.V.P. Stephen Dancey competed successfully and underclassmen Lance Teixeira, Alvin Lewis and Maquis Craig promise formidable competition. Stoughton scored several places among the Moscato relays and Hocks Championships. It can hardly be said that the team was a failure among these accomplishments. -John McNerney & Kerri Desmond

Brady's Bunch

B ad weather, chaos and cancellations described the 1996 spring track season. There is certainty where the future of Stoughton track lies-in the existing crop of freshman and sophomore athletes.

Senior tri-captains Rachelle Millien, Liz Bascon and Regina Pierre gave the team their experience and leadership. Sophomore Rania Komry in the discus and freshman Alyssa Dancey, who ran the two mile in 13 minutes, achieved their personal best at the South Shore Principals meet. The season has been on long range development and a learning experience for Brady's Bunch.

The Marching, Singing, and Dancing Knights

A Great Success

The marching band, chorus, show choir, jazz band, concert band, and jazz choir have always brought Stoughton High School an excellent reputation. The kids in the music department, directed under Ronald Christianson, are outstanding whether they're marching to the beat, blasting out their instruments, singing with the piano, dancing to the music, or be-bopping to the snaps of their fingers. Each August a new music season begins for the marching band.

The Stoughton Marching Black Knights and Color Guard completed another very successful season, capturing fifteen awards in five different shows. The Black Knights were led this year by drum major, Elana Swardlick and color guard captains, Carrie Hedman and Natalie Rebelo. The show was set to the musical score of Candide composed by Leonard Bernstein.

At the N.E.S.B.A. Finals, held at Nickerson Field at Boston University, the Black Knights captured a gold medal and were second place in their division. The band had a final score of 85.9 and the color guard finished with a season high score of 88.5. In addition to this, the marching band and color guard received many other medals throughout the season consisting of a gold, two silvers, and one bronze. They also had one first place finish, two second place finishes, two best color guard awards, two best drum major awards, one best percussion, and one best music award.

The winter concert was a great success for all participants and great entertainment for all of those who attended. Highlights of the night were the dazzling show choir singing to the theme of New York City and the chorus with their new styles including singing a capella and in foreign languages such as Hebrew and Italian. Other included features were the outstanding jazz band with Elvin's Mambo and the tremendous jazz choir with Satin Doll. Individual solos included performances by many such as Robin Dutra, Elana Swardlick, Elena Perlin, Natalie Rebelo, Nick Rebelo, Ellen Konigsberg, Dianne Tremblay, and Joshua Shultz. -Nili Schnairsohn and Carrie Hedman

The music department was very successful this year. The jazz band was chosen as one of the only ten bands across the state to perform at the annual I.A.J.E. Festival at the Hatch Shell and was given an excellent rating at U.N.H. They also competed in Montreal along with the chorus, band, show choir, and jazz choir receiving the Judge's Award which indicated that they had the highest score of any other jazz ensemble. The band was led by Music Director, Ron Christianson and seniors, Mike Tracy, Mike Blanchard, Steve Dancey, Anthony Eduardo, and Ben Reis, who was noted at every ensemble competition for outstanding bass playing. Ending the year with the spring concert, the jazz band lifted the audience off of their feet once again.

The show choir also had a great year. "Knight Moves" competed at three festivals including Central Mass., Nutmeg, and Montreal. The group received two silver medals and a gold medal. Elana Swardlick received a solo award at Nutmeg and the band ensemble received best accompanying band. At the spring concert, the show choir dazzled the audience.

Although the band and chorus didn't get much practice at other competitions, they did quite well in Montreal. The band came in third place with a score of 82 and received a silver medal. The chorus was awarded a silver medal. Performing songs in different languages and style, the chorus attracted a large crowd throughout the year.

Lastly, the jazz choir came in second place, receiving a Silver Medal in Montreal. They also competed at U.N.H. and Berkley. At Berkley, they placed in the top ten jazz choirs. Rachael Reis, Natalie Rebelo, and Nick Rebelo received solo awards throughout the year.

In Montreal, Stoughton was awarded the Sweepstakes Award, the most prestigious award given, because of their great success.

The Balancing Act

It's not uncommon to be shopping, grabbing a bite to eat, or just running an errand and end up with one of your classmates waiting on you. Today's student not only manages a rigorous schedule of school and extracurricular activities, but a part-time job also. However, for the number of kids who work, it's not just a trend, but a statistic that's rising at a staggering rate.

Students may work ten to twenty hours a week and sometimes even more. Why you may ask? To finance their soon to be college education, for the work experience, just to have something to do and most importantly for some spending money. What ever the reason may be, part-time jobs play an important role in high school life.

So the next time you grab a taco at Taco Bell (Ekwan Steele), wash it down with ice coffee from Dunkin Donuts (Julie Sarnie), run off the calories at Gold's Gym (Jeff Wheeler), and tone it up at Easton Martial Arts Center (Jennifer Wolfe), don't be surprised if a member of the class of 1996 is there to wait on you with a smile. -Nneka Jenkins

To the Class of 1996,

As our high school careers come to a close, we will begin our journey into the unknown. At first, it might seem overwhelming and terrifying, but we will learn to enjoy our new and unique experiences. We will make new friends, encounter new attitudes, and learn a new way of life. Eventually, we will change as individuals.

However, our years at Stoughton High School must never be forgotten. Whether it be Spirit Halls, the Prom, after the Prom, or even just hanging out with friends, these experiences should be branded into our permanent memories. Although many of us will deny it, we will look back on these four years with fondness of our time spent inside school.

It is said that the high school years are the best times in our lives, and I firmly believe that this is true. Through this progression, we have grown from children into adults. But more than that, we all went through this transformation TOGETHER. Because of this, we will all have a common bond that can be shared.

In closing, I encourage everyone in our class to keep in touch and see how this bond has affected our lives. I personally ask everyone to keep in contact with me because I am genuinely interested in the pursuits of my former classmates. Even if this letter is read fifty years from 1996, it is still never too late to call a former classmate. I wish all members of the Class of 1996 the very best of luck in all future endeavors.

Sincerely yours,

Steven Cohn

TO THE CLASS OF 96

IN SEPTEMBER OF 95, I TOLD YOUR CLASS THAT I WOULD BE YOUR CLASS ADVISOR, YOUR LAST CLASS ADVISOR. I HAD KNOWN SO MANY OF YOU, AS STUDENTS THAT I KNEW WE COULD GET THIS DONE. I KNEW THAT THERE WOULD ALWAYS BE PLENTY OF YOU WILLING TO HELP WHEN WE NEEDED IT. I DON'T KNOW WE WOULD HAVE SO MANY GREAT TIMES ALONG THE WAY. BE IT SKI TRIPS (WITH MOST OF YOU HEALTHY), FORREST GUMP, PROMS, CLASS TRIPS, POWDER PUFF OR JUST GAB FESTS IN MY ROOM, I FOUND THAT I HAD MADE A GREAT MANY REALLY GOOD FRIENDS. I'M NOT SURE WHO GOT MORE OUT OF OUR RELATIONSHIPS, YOU OR ME.

IT'S BEEN A PLEASURE TO SEE HOW MANY OF YOU WERE WILLING TO HELP IN A FUNO RAISER, OR TO PLAN A PROM, OR WORK ON SPIRIT HALLS OR JUST MAKE SCHOOL A MORE PLEASANT PLACE TO BE. IT HAS BEEN AN HONOR TO BE PART OF WATCHING YOU GROW, MATURE AND EVOLVE INTO PEOPLE THAT I KNOW WILL BE SUCCESSFUL IN ANY PATH YOU CHOOSE TO TAKE.

YOU HAVE SHOWN THAT YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO REACH A GOAL, FOR YOURSELVES AND AT THE SAME TIME MAKE LIFE A BIT NICER FOR THOSE AROUND YOU. IT'S TIME FOR YOU TO GO YOUR SEPARATE WAYS. I THINK THIS IS BEST FOR NOW YOU CAN ADD SOMETHING POSITIVE TO MANY MORE LIVES. YOU HAVE LEFT YOUR MARK HERE, YOU WILL BE MISSED. I THANK YOU FOR WHAT YOU HAVE GIVEN ME, YOUR HELP AND MOST OF ALL YOUR FRIENDSHIP. I HAVE SO MANY GREAT MEMORIES OF YOU AS A CLASS AND AS INDIVIDUALS THAT I FEEL TRULY BLESSED. I DON'T WANT TO SAY GOOD BYE, I'LL SEE YOU LATER.

TAKE CARE ALWAYS
MR. K

This club is for students interested in science fiction, horror, suspense, imagination, speculative and occult literature and films. Students address the questions raised by authors of this literature of change to help them cope with change in their own lives. They reflect on the problems they share with all humanity on a planet with problems of ecological balance, human/machine interaction, new technologies and even the survival of the planet itself. The broad category of "science fiction" as the only future-oriented literature, has the ability to provide some answers. This group meets weekly.

Lisa Ormond and Sarah Ferguson assisted the yearbook staff by identifying all the people in the soccer pictures. The two of them just couldn't get enough soccer!

John Hamm worked on getting our design suggestions into the computer. The smile on his face is the result of completing the senior master pages.

Yearbook

Having attended a two and one half day yearbook camp session at North Adams State College, Kerri Desmond and Kendall DeBassio returned with many new ideas. At our second meeting in September we decided on our theme; So Far So Good. Our next meeting was to decide the yearbook cover and there were two different ideas that dominated the evening. One was a large smiley face and the other was a Knight with his thumb up in the air. Though the real beginning of this year's edition happened in Auburn at a cover design workshop where three staff members worked with a professional artist to design the cover and end sheets. You can see what our final decision was as we went classic.

One big goal of this year's staff was to give more of what you wanted in this year's Stotonian and we got down to work. Next, the staff set out deciding on the contents and designed the different sections. The staff spent endless hours sifting through thousands of pictures. We wrote stories to describe the different events and of course each picture needed to be identified and have a caption. We struggled with untimely deadlines, designing half our book on computer and half by hand. To make this as possible the staff sold advertisements to businesses, sold Gold C coupon books and sold many lollipops during the year. After many week day afternoons and evenings we finally were finished!

Although we seemed very frustrated at times, we mean well. We feel we did a pretty good job and we think we learned some valuable lessons, like how not to pull all your hair out at once! Well here's the book, and we're breathing a sigh of relief. If you have any complaints save them for yourself and don't tell us. We hope you do like it and in the years ahead when you look back, it will bring memories that you can reflect upon and smile.

Summer Yearbook Conference: Our Point of View

My first experience at yearbook camp was quite interesting.

As I walked in the door of the dorm I'd be staying in for three days, I was kind of amazed! There were so many kids. As I was walking toward the front desk to get the keys to my room (SO I COULD PUT DOWN THE ONE HUNDRED THIRTY THINGS I WAS CARRYING) a man jumped in front of me and snapped my picture. That was the beginning of my adventure.

After getting my key, getting all my worldly possessions into a tiny little elevator, and finally put my stuff down . . . I had to go to my first meeting.

My first day was fairly normal, meetings for business and photography, lunch, and then more meetings. After dinner I went right to bed because I was really tired and didn't know any one. Day two started as I expected, breakfast, and more meetings. My second meeting, business II "Yearbook Fundraising", I met Brye and Clue. I don't really remember how we started talking but we hit it off. As luck would have it the three of us had the next two classes together. After lunch they invited me to go swimming with them and a large group of friends, and of course I said sure, not having anything else to get done. We spent most of the afternoon in the water, having chicken fights (my team was the champ) I met for supper with the two people that came with me, but they had to go back to class. Sitting up in my room reading there was a knock at the door, Brye was wondering how good I was at volleyball and if I wanted to play. Why not? It had already gotten dark out, but that didn't stop us. We must have played from 8:30 - 10:30 PM, it was great. When we finally went inside, the group of people I was with (about 20) broke up into smaller groups, some ran about the building playing elevator tag and moving the lounge furniture from floor to floor and some (like Clue, Brye and I) hung out in someone's room (the room being Clues). We talked the whole night at about six we fell asleep. We missed breakfast and didn't have any classes so we slept till about ten. We woke up, took showers, changed and went to the last group event, the slide show. I sat with twenty kids I had been with the night before. We whooped and howled at our pictures as they appeared on the screen, and then it was over. I went back to my room and packed my things, and met my friends down stairs to say my goodbyes. I exchanged addresses, and there was a huge group hug and the end of a great three days. I don't really remember the ride home, I slept through it.

-Kendall DeBassio

Going to yearbook camp was quite an adventure this being my second year, unfortunately this time I would be obligated to doing my work and not staying up late eating pizza and falling asleep in workshops the next morning. When I began the long ride to North Adams State College, a destination three hours away, I was lugging a sleeping bag, pillow, duffel bags, notebooks, tea in a thermal mug and lots of extra junk I didn't need. Mrs. Pappas picked me up in her brand new station wagon at roughly six A.M. Summer had just begun and I'd only had one week of being able to sleep late. About fifteen minutes later we picked up Kendall, who fell asleep in the backseat once we got to the highway. She was the lucky one, poor Mrs. Pappas had to listen to my consistent babbling for the next three hours. The last few miles of the drive was breathtaking and incredible to the eye of an artist (namely me). Untouched forestry is everywhere and the mountains loom up over your head on either side of the road then open up to the infamous "Hairpin" turn which reveals the entire valley below in brilliant blues and greens just like something off of one of Monet's masterpieces.

When we finally arrived we were greeted by the photographers from last year, taking our pictures as we lugged our stuff to our dorm rooms. We stayed in a huge brick dorm that's seven stories high, and situated on a steep hill. Kendall and I stayed on the sixth floor, reachable by a tiny elevator that shakes and rattles when more than one person is in it. I dumped my pillow and one duffel bag on the bed and the others on the desk by the window in Kendall's and my dorm room then headed out for orientation down the hill and into the building that holds the auditorium. Orientation hadn't changed except for the title for this year's camp: "X-RAY VISION". It was complete deja-vu, the slides, the encouraging chats and laid back atmosphere of the laid back New England Jostens Representatives and friendly yearbook advisors. When orientation was over Kendall left for her workshops and I assisted Mrs. Pappas in toting the Macintosh Computer from her wagon to the "Year Tech" computer workshop. "Year-Tech" is a fairly new program by Jostens enabling us to layout page plans on computer rather than paper, saving tons of time, effort, and trees. I spent most of the three days of our trip in the cool air conditioned computer room "playing" and becoming familiar with the program which will hopefully save precious time in editing, production, and distribution of the "Stotonion", our yearbook. This is the whole purpose of the yearbook camp, to educate students in editing, production and all the different parts of putting together a professional looking yearbook that we can look back on and be proud of. It's also a heck of a good time, I've had a blast the past two years going to camp, eating pizza at midnight, meeting new people, watching movies, playing human bingo, there are so many things to do and so little time. All in all this year was just as much a success to me as last year was! - Kerri Desmond

Bridges of Norfolk County

It was first term and the physics students were all preparing for their first project. It was finally our turn to build bridges. After estimating how many toothpicks we used, the frustration of the glue not sticking and the last minute praying it was time to test out physics knowledge. The intensity built up as students placed the weights on the bridge. We all shrieked with the sounds of creaking and breaks. Many of the bridges withheld the average weight and others broke with only a few kilograms on. Although there were a variety of grades, the physics students all learned a lot and enjoyed the break from the normal learning environmental.

-Michelle Bernstein and Bethany Geiger

Steve Cohn says, "Please don't break, please don't break, please don't break!!!" as Bryan Wiener looks on.

Danielle Power thinking, "No way is this bridge falling down!"

This is a cinch! My bridge will uphold anything," says a very happy Bart Heberling.

"It's not cracking, is it?", a hopeful Steven Conopka asks.

"That egg isn't hard boiled, is it?", Mr. Carey asks Lynn Kimball.

3...2...1... HAPPY NEW YEAR!!!

This class is very enthusiastic towards Mr. Carey's lesson.

Another egg for the Home Economics Department.

"I don't think there are any cracks in this egg," says a relieved Jennifer Wolfe.

Dropping Mad Eggs

Much creativity was seen on egg day. Many new ideas were seen with the egg projects. The most popular way was suspending the egg in a box with a nylon. New original ideas were invented by Ryan Wilensky who placed the egg in the middle of a sleeping bag and David Levy who put his in a pillow.

Other ideas such as putting the egg in a water balloon did not turn out so well. Many students achieved A's by throwing the packages up first. A great time was had by all included the Home Economics department who benefited from our eggs. -Michelle Bernstein and Bethany Geiger

Homecoming

October 20, 1995

The Homecoming court consisted this year of five women who have distinguished themselves from all others. In order to wear the crown it takes a special individual. To even have been nominated is an honor in itself. However, there can only be one Homecoming Queen.

To be queen it goes far beyond ones beauty, for beauty is only skin deep. The queen is the one person who has been an asset to her class throughout their four years of high school. You voted for her, you nominated her, the Homecoming Queen for the Class of 1996, is Miss Michelle Fisher.

Michelle embodies the essence of her class, and serves as a model to her peers. Next year and for every year thereafter, classes will see one of their own being crowned Homecoming Queen, but there will never be another Queen as dedicated and spirited, for there will never be a class that resembles the Class of 1996. -Brenda Pinto

The Slaughter

Spirit Week Belongs to Seniors

Once again, the seniors drove away with the victory of spirit week, receiving first in can day, recycle day, orange and black day, and college sweatshirt day. Despite the busy schedule of the Powder Puff boys and girls, the Walt Disney spirit hall was unbelievable and full of talent especially seen through wonderful drawings.

From the castle to the seven dwarfs at the end, the seniors were determined to make a colorful, creative, and magical hall. Supervised by class adviser, Mr. Kelleher, they could do so. Characters such as Beauty and the Beast, the Genie from Aladdin, Mufasa and Rafiki, both from

The Lion King, lit up the hall. The seniors' attitude in beating the Bulldogs in both the Powder Puff and Thanksgiving game was seen through throwing two of them in the moat. The seniors didn't leave until they were kicked out by the judges and then, as done in the past, the Powder Puff girls went on a mission to toilet paper the Powder Puff cheerleaders' houses. The next morning was still full with excitement as the Powder Puff girls stormed through the halls screaming at the top of their lungs.

Finally the awards were given at the extremely high-spirited pep rally which no one will probably forget because of such an enthusiastic speech given by football captain, David Nevil. The Powder Puff team, being more pumped up than ever was ready to crush the Lady Bulldogs, the football players looked more handsome than ever, the band and the cheerleaders once again gave a wonderful performance, and the Powder Puff cheerleaders were the hit of the rally with their "orange, black, and a little white." Everyone came together during this rally which allowed Stoughton High School spirit to carry out through the week. - Nili Schnairsohn

Powder Puff

Bulldogs Go Down!

Powder Puff is one of the most high-spirited events during senior year for both boys and girls. There were about sixty girls who signed up to play and throughout the game, the motivation to crush the Bulldogs stayed in their hearts. Hard work in practice lead by teachers, Miss Sullivan and Mr. Kelleher, along with enthusiasm caused by the togetherness of the team, were all carried onto the field when game day finally arrived.

The boys, on the other hand, had an opportunity to be the outstanding cheerleaders they were for the unstoppable S.H.S. senior girls. They filled the field and stands with their loud and clear voices singing the favorite cheer of the day, "Orange, black, and a little white . . .", and of course who can forget the wonderful dance that went to this cheer.

After listening to "Gangsters Paradise" during warm-up time, Stoughton was extremely pumped up hoping that Canton would be intimidated, however with Kiah Jones at center and Stephanie Goldstein as defensive lineman, we didn't really have anything to worry about.

Canton kicked off first. Quarterback, Kerry McElaney, got the ball off the ground and miraculously scored a touchdown for the first play of the game. It turns out that the Canton girls weren't really bulldogs at all. This was realized after Nili Schnairsohn scored two consecutive touchdowns followed by Sarah McKay's which made the score 28-0 by the end of the first half. Jeanne Kerrigan scored the last touchdown and by the end of the game, the score was 36-14.

Dressed in full uniform with bandanas and eye makeup, not only was the offense unstoppable, but the defense was unbelievable. Even though a great effort was made by all, Liz Bascon, Kristen Lucas, Michelle Fisher, Courtney Leavitt, who had two interceptions, Rachel Millien, and Nneka Jenkins led the defense in creating an unbeatable wall that only allowed two touchdowns. The amazing aggressiveness that the defense had put Canton out of competition right away.

Of course, last but not least, it wouldn't have been the same with not only the fans, but the cheerleaders. These guys not only cheered their hearts out for the girls but were right there with them when everyone ran to greet the player who had just scored a touchdown at the time. They were in the game as much as all of the players; if not more supporting them to the very end and helping make this game a victory. Nili Schnairsohn

Black Knights Victorious!

Football Game Highlight of Spirit Week.

The pep rally, the Powder Puff game, and their own determination led the Stoughton High School Black Knights to crush the Canton Bulldogs, 28-6 at Canton High School on Thanksgiving. It was a bitter cold day, but you would have never known it with the extremely warm support from the hundreds of fans, the cheerleaders, and the Marching Band.

In the first quarter, an interception by Canton caused some suspense throughout the crowd, but everyone had faith that Stoughton would somehow come out with the victory. A team of 7 and 2 with a defense recognized as the best in the league was not in the least bit ready to give up.

The game turned around as soon as Stoughton got the ball back and great efforts were made by offense and defense. On offense, even though the talent was extremely spread out, Junior, Jay McNamara, and Seniors, Quarterback, Alex Tarpey, Manny Velho, and Ekwan Steele led the team with touchdowns. The Knights broke right through the Bulldog's defense, because of their strong will to fight and made running for a touchdown look easy, because of their great speed.

On defense, Jon Pires, highlighted the game with an amazing interception and once again, although great efforts were made by all, David Nevil, Wayne Jordan, Jon Pires, and Ekwan Steele led the team to victory. The strong defense by the Knights made it extremely difficult for the Bulldogs to score. They were pumped, aggressive, and mean, however, just having those characteristics was not what won the game. It was those along with the exceptional togetherness they had that was shown on the field.

The whole team worked very hard to make this victory possible putting their hearts into every play. They ended the season with an unbelievable record of 8 and 2 and like each captain had hoped for during the pep rally in their speeches, the turkey was sweeter this Thanksgiving. - Nili Schnairsohn

SHS Winter Dance

A Night of Magic

All four classes of Stoughton High School miraculously got together to have one of the most successful winter dances in recent history. With over 300 students in attendance, laughter, dancing, and good music was in vogue.

The cafeteria was magically transformed into a winter wonderland by members of the class of 1998 and Student Council. The junior class participated by serving refreshments, the freshmen by advertising, and the seniors by selling tickets. The effort put forth by all four classes and Student Council was wonderful. Some members of Student Council volunteered to dress up as holiday characters like Santa Claus, portrayed by Kiah Jones, and Hanukkah Harry, portrayed by Michelle Bernstein.

All of the students and attending faculty enjoyed the music played by the DJ, Kevin Callahan. He had a broad range of music going from the Rock N' Roll of the 1960's to the Gangster Rap and Alternative of the 1990's. Everyone seemed to occupy the dance floor when the DJ played some of the old favorites like "YMCA" by the Village People, and "Paradise by the Dashboard Lights" by Meatloaf. In addition to the music, seniors who were at the dance enjoyed listening to find out the winners of this year's senior superlatives.

The dance came to a close at 10:00 PM with the theme song of the class of 1996's junior prom "I'll Stand By You". People left the dance with feeling of Euphoria, and the moment in time they will never forget. - Kiah Jones

FALL DINNER THEATRE

On Friday evening, December 2, 1995, the Drama Dept. hosted its third annual Dinner Theatre. This year's production was Woody Allen's hysterical comedy, Don't Drink The Water. The play is set in the American Embassy of a small Communist Country. Walter Hollander (David Levy), a caterer from New Jersey, is seen taking pictures in a restricted area. He and host wife Marion (Elena Perlin) and daughter Susan (Robin Dutra) are chased into the embassy by Krojak (Jean-Paul Reed) and the secret police.

Ambassador Magee (Alana Swardlick) is away and has left the embassy in the hands of her son Axel (Kevin De Melo) a foreign servant so incompetent he was once hung in effigy by his own embassy. During the opening conversation with Krojak Axel admits that the Hollanders "might be spies." Krojak vows to surround the embassy day and night until he is able to drag the Hollanders out and shoot them.

Ambassador Magee's competent assistant, Kilroy (Janna Acheson) is horrified and asks Axel what he was thinking. He replies, "I was thinking, Don't panic, don't lose control." "What happened?" "I panicked, I lost control." The Hollanders discover that the last person to request asylum, Father Drobney (Mark Tolland) has been living there for 6 years.

As Axel tries to free the family, Susan and he fall in love: Walter insults the politically important Sultan of Bashire (Chris Leone) and chaos reigns until, as with all comedies, everything is resolved. The Hollanders escape; Susan and Axel marry; and the Ambassador runs for Governor. As a precaution he has Axel transferred to Bolivia where "for the first time in 200 years, the country had a plague of locusts."

Science Fair

Mad About Science

On March 14, 1996, 118 students participated in the school's 38th Annual Science Fair. The categories for the projects included experimental and exhibition. Forty five judges who came anywhere from our very own high school to Harvard University enjoyed a night of excitement and variety. The Experimental Division included 90 projects covering a wide area of topics such as Boston Harbor, soap, and hypertension while the Exhibition Division included 28 projects ranging anywhere from colors of the sky to dinosaurs.

After the judging and the dinner that followed, students, friends, family, and others from the community gathered in the cafeteria for the awards ceremony. The First Grand Award winner from the Experimental Division was automatically eligible to compete in the Massachusetts State Science Fair at MIT on April 26 and 27, 1996. The First Five Grand Award Winners in the same division were eligible to represent Stoughton High School at the South Shore Regional Science Fair at Bridgewater State College on March 23, 1996. All of these winners received trophies, other students received honorable mentions, and everyone received an exhibitor pin.

The awards in the Experimental Division were given as follows: First Place to Lindsay Rosenfield with "Mind Over Matter V: Another Dimension to Hypertension," Second Place to Beth Goldman with "The Caffeine Content of Various Brands of Coffee," Third Place to Lee Schneider with "Where Do Earthquakes Occur?" Fourth Place to So Yun Kwan with "The Osmotic Behavior of Spirogyra in Varying Molar Solutions," and Fifth Place to Yolanda America with "The Antibacterial Agents in Garlic." Honorable mentions were given to Robin Dutra, Karyn Ellis, Tiffany Gale, Kim Gulko, Kim Huppe, Rania Komry, Jennifer Ozog, Christopher Rantz, Tom Sullivan, and Miguel Vieira.

The awards in the Exhibition Division were given as follows: First Place to Sarah Ferguson with "Brain Tumors," Second Place to Rachel Slate with "Nuclear Energy," Third Place to Carolyn Mischley with "Dinosaurs: Kings of the Extinct," Fourth Place to Michael Finni with "Ocean Submersibles," and Fifth Place to Scott Smeed with "Nuclear Energy: Atoms for Peace." Honorable mentions were given to Courtney Connors, John Foley, Greg Hansen, Allison Kessler, and Dion Russell. -Nili Schnairsohn

The Apple Tree

This year's musical, The Apple Tree, was performed on May 2, 3, and 4. The Apple Tree is actually 3 one act musicals. The first, "The Diary of Adam and Eve," is based on a Mark Twain novella. It gives a humorous look at what might have really happened in the Garden of Eden. Kevin DeMelo played Adam, Robin Dutra played Eve, and senior, Brian Ernst, played The Snake.

Act 2, "The Lady or the Tiger," is a retelling of the famous Frank Stockton short story. Featured in this act were senior, Chris Piaseczny as the Balladeer, Elana Swardlick as Princess Barbara, Chris Leone as Captain Sanjar, and Justin McNamara as the King.

Act 3, "Passionella," is taken from a Jules Feiffer short story. Senior, Elena Perlin, played Ella/Passionella, the chimney sweep turned movie star. Jaime Larsen was the narrator and Brian Clebnik was Flip, the Prince Charming. Rounding out the act 2 and 3 casts, playing many small roles, were Lisa America, Janna Atcheson, Katie Schmidt, Lisa Strano, Erica Bettencourt, Danielle McNamara, Erica Fillion, and Alyssa Mills.

Members of the pit band included senior, Ben Reis, Diane Tremblay, Angela Polilio, Chris Small, and Josh Schultz. Stage Crew included: Chrissy Guiney, Tracy Rieser, Kathy Gleason, and Jean Paul Reed.

An Enchanted Evening

The Junior Prom was the place to be on May 10, 1996. It was the social climax of the year. Everyone worked to look their very best for the five hours they would spend in the ballroom of the Holiday Inn at Mansfield. Under the dance floor lights, lovers embraced, friends acted friendly and both the polished as well as the not so polished dancers boogied to the beat of The Entertainer's deafening stereo speakers. It was a night where memories were made, dreams were fulfilled, and the possibilities were endless.

The theme "Hold On To The Night" accurately conveyed the thoughts of all those in attendance. For one short night enemies and friends, students and teacher chaperons set aside their differences and were able to successfully proceed through the night's celebration. However, besides the prom theme there were some other more noticeable party themes going on. Guys sporting dark shades and girls sparkling were just some of the more observable trends of the night. Prom night is a night where love, friendship and relationships blossom. What happens from there on after, is all in how you managed it!

We've Got Tonight

On Friday, May 1, 1996 the senior prom was held. Almost 90% of the class attended the event. Everyone arrived at the Lake View Pavilion in style ready for an amazing event. Students checked in, stood in line for the formal pictures, and walked around the beautiful grounds taking pictures to capture the memories. We all enjoyed the tasty meal served but were eagerly waiting to dance. The party came to life as soon as the D.J. started. The entire floor was packed. Everyone was having a great time including the chaperones. Many even skipped dessert in order to keep on dancing. An array of songs was played throughout the evening. The prom queen and her court accompanied by their dates started off the dance to the prom song, We've Got Tonight. Friendship and romance filled the air while couples danced to the song. No one wanted the night to end but before we knew it the last song was being played. As the last notes of the final song were heard we were all remembering the magical evening and all the memories of our senior year. - Michelle Bernstein

Food, Fun, & Frolic!!

The ninety students and six chaperones that arrived at Stoughton High at 6:15 am on June 2nd did not expect a beautiful, sunny day. The weather as we left was misty and quite overcast. Our chaperones accompanying us on the trip to the Sunrise Resort in Moodus, Conn. were: Mrs. Pappas, Mr. Monti, Mr. MacCinni, Mr. Kelleher, Mr. Tosca, and Mr. Gormley. As we pulled into the parking lot at 9:30 am, Coo-Coo and Larry J., the social directors greeted us with promises of "Food, Fun, Frolic." There were many activities to get involved in such as: canoe races, softball, tug-of-war, volleyball, basketball, and swimming in the pool. Somewhere in the middle of all of our fun, the sun came out and it did become a beautiful day. Most people spent the majority of the time just hanging out with friends, sunbathing, and doing crazy diving off the huge diving board. Everyone had a hard time climbing up the hill affectionately nicknamed, "Hell Hill" by all that tried to climb it. Stoughton High took home the prizes for the best dancers with Rich Marrow and Bart Heberling showing us all how to get down. As we left Sunrise Resort, we were all glad that we had one last day of bonding with eighty-nine other class members before we all went our separate ways.- Sasha Abby.

During the canoe races, the team of Michelle Paderson, Mike Schwartz, Samir Ragab, Sara McKay, Jeannie Kerrigan, and Ale Tarpey had a little bit of trouble with two members of their team!! # A Night Full of Class

As we walked into the auditorium, in two lines based on height, we stood tall and proud of all of our accomplishments. Even though most of us would not be receiving awards during the night, we knew that we had done what we had set to do and our high school career was finally coming to an end. Many people made wonderful speeches throughout the night. Greg Hansen, the Treasurer of the class, spoke about how much of an influence his family had on him. He said, "My father always told me that I would either sink or swim in life, well Dad, I'm swimming." Steven Cohn, the valedictorian and Class President, spoke about his role models during his school days. He spoke about how his role model had always been Isiah Thomas because he was an outstanding basketball star. Only when he started high school did he realize that a role model should be a person that has had a personal positive influence on your life, not someone that you admire for athletic ability. Mr. William Berry fit that to a tee and has been his role model since the first day of Latin I, back in fall of freshman year. Michael Hahn also spoke of role models. Discussed in his speech was how his friend Greg Hansen was and always had been an inspiration to him. He said it was because Greg has overcome so many hardships and had always remained optimistic about the future. Michelle Paderson, the Vice President, and Steve Dancey, the Secretary, presented our class advisor, Mr. Kelleher with a gift from the Class of 1996. Many awards were presented, including departmental awards and awards for academic excellence. -Sasha Abby

Graduation

June 14, 1996

Graduation speakers usually quote someone famous and renowned, Kiah Jones, Student Council President, proudly quoted classmate, Kyle Fredericks, "The world is ours, so let's take it."

The class of 1996 has great ambitions to take the world by storm. Steven Cohn, Class President, told his fellow graduates that living in Stoughton "has only scratched the surface of what the world has to offer."

Principal, James Boushell also challenged the class of 1996 to change the world and remind them that they are on the verge of the 21st century. He likened the class to the Olympics, telling them they are part of the chain and are linked to young people around the world. He challenged them to "change the world one link at a time."

As valedictorian, Steven Cohn said the graduation ceremony was bringing the class to closure. The day was more than receiving their diplomas and instead urged the graduates to remember the friendships and lessons gained at S.H.S.

Michelle Paderson, in her graduation speech, poetically highlighted the class' accomplishments. In verse, she recalled beginning school, the victories of the athletic teams, spirit week and the music department.

Mrs. Carol Piaseczny, secretary of the school committee dared the class to dream and challenged them to always be kind to one another. She told the class to believe in their abilities, work for their dreams and make things happen.

As we graduate today, our future has just begun. We have come to accept and like ourselves ready to take on the world.

Beginning of the End

Then it happened. The day anticipated by Seniors all across the nation, finally arrived for the Stoughton High class of 1996. May 24 was the closing day of our high school careers. By breakfast all students were relieved and anxious, but by last hour of that academic day many realized what the last day of high school really meant, as shown in their sadness and optimism. It dawned on most seniors that the times of innocence and immaturity were rapidly winding down. Thus began the senior olympics, also known as the ancient Stotonian tradition of Senior Prank Week.

It began with a month long saga of watergun Senior Assassination where Ruben Vasconcelos and Todd Korchin were the champions. While the juniors hunted for parking spaces, the seniors enjoyed the luxury of the underclassman parking spaces and dining for the Senior Parking Lot Breakfast. There were few participants for 80's Day, Bike Day, and Toga Day, but on Pajama Day about 100 students rolled out of bed and into D 2nd hallway, lay down and blocked the paths of passers-by, until Mr. Paul came and regulated.

Besides the endless numbers of group activities people gathered with their closest friends to snap pictures, reminisce and even burn 1996 into the football field. However it was celebrated, I'm sure the day will be looked back upon with happy thoughts. -Nneka Jenkins (Right; Top-Bottom) "Run Dave!" Jon McInerney screams and tackles Danielle Power from assassinating David Guglia. In celebration of school ending, multi-talented Michelle Fisher plays a song on the xylophone while demonstrating the wave theory in Mr. Carey's physics class. Chris Santos says "Hey it worked!" on Pajama Day while Michael Hahn just sleeps. The Class of 1996 demonstrates that life is more than a bagel on Parking Lot Breakfast Day.

To the Class of 1996:

My sincere congratulations to the Class of 1996 on your graduation from Stoughton High School.

It is the student body that makes a school what it is, and you have made it an outstanding school; a place which is exciting to be in and of which we may all be justly proud. For your cooperation and your efforts, I am deeply grateful.

My best wishes to all of you in the Class of 1996 for a healthy, happy and good life.

Sincerely,

Last Will and Testament of The Class

I, Sasha Abby, leave all of the homework I never did, the swiss and I will take with me all my memories.

I, Diana Andrade, leave the lil' fat book.

I, Mylene Araujo, leave everlasting memories of myself in soul and mind.

I, Robin Assner, leave a painting that (I hope) will someday be worth a lot of money.

I, Christopher Baldner, leave every book that hasn't been touched in my locker over the last 12 years.

I, Robin Barrette, leave my absences.

I, Janine Barry, leave my peanut butter and jelly sandwiches on pita bread.

I, Elizabeth Bascon, leave behind my always full tank of gas.

I, Norman Belo, leave all the aggravation I had.

I, Michelle Bernstein, leave my many volumes of Cliff's Notes, my name engraved in the math desks.

I, Kristy Bosse, leave the double locker on B third to the next trio.

I, Denise Brown, leave all the french fries at Stoughton High to Danielle Power.

I, Scott Brown, leave one oil buring, gas leaking Chevrolet Celebrity.

I, Keith Burke, leave nothing.

I, Sonya Cabral, leave behind the mid-year and final exams.

I, Angela Colgate, leave all the teachers who asked too many questions.

I, Shannon Corfield, leave a lifetime of black nail polish, black sunglasses for all, Amvets, old Kidpower and Flood tapes.

I, Nelson Correia, leave my headaches.

I, Steven Dancey, leave my hectic extra-curricular activity schedule to the next full-time brain/athlete/musician to enter the high school.

I, Michael Del Conte, will leave cookbooks and smoke detectors for all the lunch women in the cafeteria.

I, James Delorey, leave my mind, body and soul and the football field.

I, Kathleen Dexter, leave all the toilet paper I had to take down off of my trees.

I, Steven Dias, leave my experiment in the bathroom.

I, Timothy DiBona, leave my insanity to be passed down.

I, Patrick Doherty, leave all of my burnt rubber that I laid in the parking lot and on the curbs, MOTOR-HEADS!!!

I, Stephanie Egel, leave the double locker on B third that I shared with Kristy and Jeannie to the next trio.

I, Alan Elefson, leave my calculus notes, written in invisible ink.

I, Brian Ernst, leave the track uniform I never passed back to Mr. Looney.

I, Karen Faherty, leave the gym clothes I never wore, Scott Arsenault, Alex and his toast.

I, Mandy Faria, leave the cliques that think they are better than everyone else and the midyears and finals that we all hated.

I, Traci Feibel, leave my sunglasses and those few teachers who actually knew how to make an impact on my life.

I, Elizabeth Fernandes, leave all the mint gum everyone gave me.

I, Lynne Fine, leave my countless hours of studying.

I, Kerry Foley, leave NOTHING-ditto, nada, zero.

I, Danny Freitas, would like to leave my last report card for all to see.

I, Bethany Geiger, leave behind R.C.

I, Benjamin Graupen, leave behind 112 for good!

I, David Guglia, leave behind that infamous football game in the fall.

I, Michael Hahn, leave the school a car so we don't have to pay exorbitant prices for Driver's Ed.

I, William Hannon, leave burnt rubber on Adams St. and leave the Cutlass/Camaro crew to Rachael Reis and Nicole LaCasse.

I, Gregory Hansen, leave my parking spot to . . .

I, Kelly Hardiman, leave smiles, because they're so healthy.

I, Bartlett Heberling, leave my extensive Pepsi can collection that has grown since Freshman year.

I, Carrie Hedman, leave my flags and memories of the auditorium.

I, Michael Helvitz, leave Gwen, the suitcase, West, my polyester plaid pants, the store, a bunch of bananas and Puppet Man's dance.

I, Amanda Hemeon, leave Tim my job, Josh my two lockers, Ann my fertile egg, Lisa a smile, Sarah my hair and Ross Cheez Wizz.

I, Adam Iacobucci, leave the completed trifecta.

I, Jennifer Ivaldi, leave my Spanish that I could never pass, all the wonderful friendships I have made and my Senior year, the best year of my life.

I, Nneka Jenkins, leave the eczema my little container of vaseline could never cure.

I, Becky Johnston, gladly leave behind Math Class (specifically Calculus), and early morning starts. I sadly leave Clue, the Greezers, all-nighters, tie dye and the such . . .

I, Kiah Jones, leave my gym clothes in whatever room they may be in now, and all those early morning coffee cups that I would always forget to bring with me to my next class, because we don't drink coffee in the house.

I, Alina Kaplan, leave my impeccable attendance record.

I, Nicole Kennedy, leave Stoughton High my dog who ate all my homework in physics class.

I, Jeanne Kerrigan, leave behind the double locker on B third that I shared with Kristy and Stephanie to the next trio!!

I, Lynn Kimball, leave my straw wrapper wishes, my red streaked hair, Gordon, Elmo, Zoe, and my attitude problem for anyone strange enough to want them.

I, Todd Korchin, leave my baseball shirt #12 with my autograph on it.

I, Seta Kouloyan, leave my bad memories and good experiences.

I, David Leal, leave all the homework that I've never done and never will do for the rest of my life!

I, Courtney Leavitt, leave to all the walkers the icy, unplowed sidewalks.

I, Jennifer Levine, leave all those early mornings I had to rush to school.

I, David Levy, leave free photocopies, computer passwords, and day 3 AP English "symposiums."

I, Sharyn Lodgen, leave my height to anyone who can measure up to it.

I, Shawn Lovell, leave Mr. Carey's test that I failed.

I, Kristen Lucas, leave Ruby and her great adventures.

I, Jon MacKerron, leave the excitement of Computer Science class and the tip of my pinky finger.

I, Catherine Mahoney, leave behind Sunday morning basketball practices and Bernie.

I, Richard Marrow, leave my playalistic mentality for all future players and memories of me to future young ladies.

I, Christie McDonald, leave my spot at the front of the breakfast line during C-Hour commons with Michelle P. and my favorite Mr. Berry stories for all future generations of SHS students who don't know what they're losing out on.

I, Kerry McElaney, leave behind the banana boat and the good friends I picked, B.J.C.

I, Tina McGloin, leave all the teachers that like to lecture on and on and on . . .

I, John McNerney, leave behind the bus I ran into, the forest I got lost in, the river I fell into, the extra lap I ran, and the wrong track stadium I got stranded in . . . all during my track season.

I, Sarah McKay, leave behind my Contempo pocket-books.

I, Adam Mitchell, leave my picture, so all the girls can still worship me.

I, Elizabeth Ormond, leave all Mrs. Krol's math tests I failed.

I, Michelle Paderson, leave my number one spot in the breakfast line in C-hour commons with Christie and the Golden Wooptie!

I, Brenda Pinto, leave my love for the greatest teachers on the planet and R-E-S-P-E-C-T.

I, Danielle Power, leave the legend of Joshua Davis, the South School wonderboy, to anyone bored enough to listen.

I, Samir Ragab, leave all the excuses I gave my teachers for not being in class and my spot in the teacher's row of the parking lot.

I, Dominic Rebelo, leave my job at Friendly's, my attendance record, and my T-pass.

I, Benjamin Reis, leave all my broken guitar strings that riddle the auditorium.

I, Elizabeth Roche, leave the boring and pointless morning and afternoon announcements.

I, Iannie Rodrigues, leave my high pitched laughs and the overload of stress I put on myself.

I, Jon Rosenthal, leave the shwag, because everybody loves the shwag.

I, Caryn Rubin, leave my messy locker for the janitors to clean out and all my late passes.

I, Christopher Santos, leave the Socias in the dust in the football game, and I leave my precious fruit snacks.

I, Julie Sarnie, leave my last name to the school since I'm the last Sarnie to graduate and my Spanish class because I could never pass it.

I, Nili Schnairsohn, leave behind my buckets.

I, Marc Scotch, leave my blood, sweat and tears out on the Stoughton High School football field.

I, Jessica Scott, leave behind my teacher's AE's. I want all students to share the joy that we have cherished and loved so much.

I, Erica Shapiro, leave all my bath and body lotions, turtles, Pistol Pete and the reject corner, Clark, mocos, and all the memories of the Shed.

I, Laura Spinola, leave my trip to Portugal that caused me to fall behind in all of my classes.

I, Heidi Spintig, leave the 7:30 am classes where I was too tired to think.

I, Ekwan Steele, leave Stoughton High football behind.

I, Monica Sterk, leave the wood shop room.

I, Gary Stone, leave my class spirit so other grades will realize that it is important to get involved.

I, Gail Tockman, leave the hall monitors, Betty and Bubba, Scott Arsenault, Mr. Keppel and his cookie monster, and the extra loud fire alarm.

I, Michael Tracy, leave all the cake rolls and dill rods I didn't eat.

I, Ruben Vasconcelos, leave the physics class that was hard to say awake through.

I, Arti Wadwha, leave all the books I never returned when due, my two Mustangs that looked as good as they ran, and of course my 685-YEE license plate.

I, Nicole Werra, leave the remembrance of the Class of 96.

I, Bryan Weiner, leave my hard work and effort.

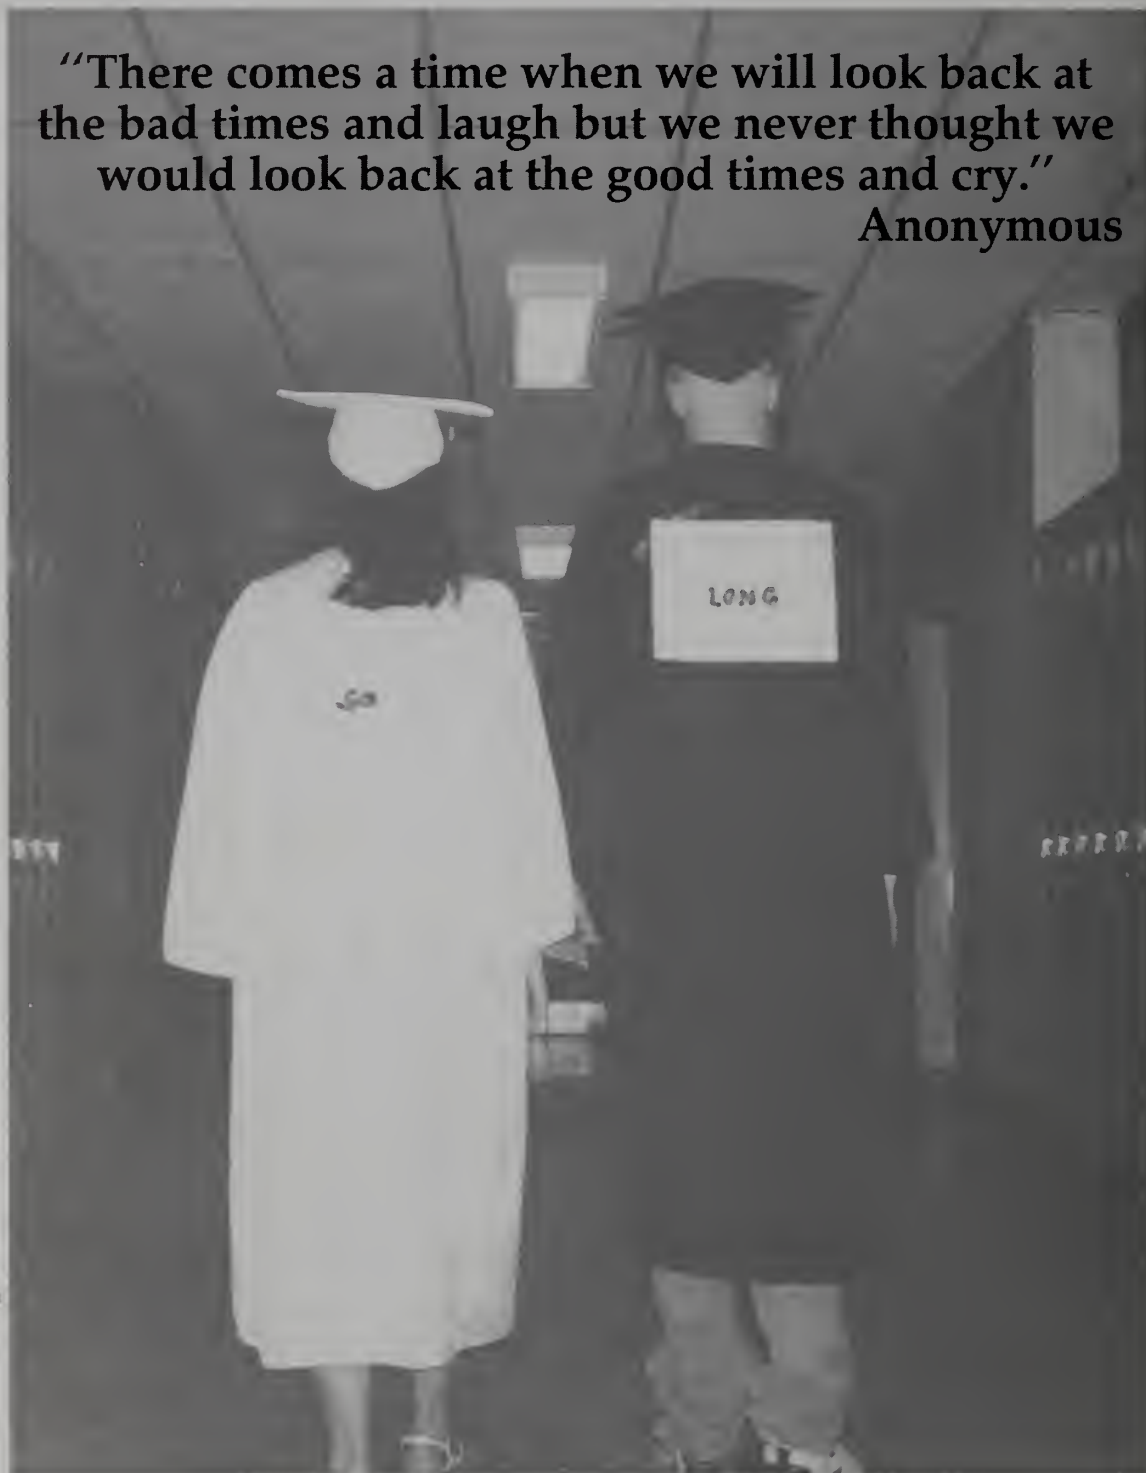

I, Tanjaneka Williams, leave my famous saying "I don't even want to be here today."

I, Edward Zbinski, leave my blonde colored hair.

I, Andrea Zechello, leave behind the Greezer's, my teacher's AE's, and the chemistry class I should have NEVER taken!

"There comes a time when we will look back at the bad times and laugh but we never thought we would look back at the good times and cry."
